CATHOLIC CHURCH

Divine Mercy Sunday
April 28, 2019

Reflection

How appropriate that on Divine Mercy Sunday all the readings call us to open our eyes and experience the many ways that God's mercy touches us. Not only are we to experience God's mercy but we have also received the mandate that God's mercy be shared with others through our actions. A simple sharing of the gift of peace with someone who is expressing doubt about God's love and mercy by your presence and words of reassurance is a great way to start.

From there take the time to learn of the great suffering that so many fellow Christians and others are enduring in war-torn areas. Think about all those who are fleeing violence in order to protect their families. Meditate on how racism permeates our culture as a systemic problem. Contemplate the cry of Mother Earth as her resources are being consumed with abandon and other species are being decimated. We are the ones who must be and act mercifully. We will never have peace without mercy and justice for those who suffer and for suffering creation. --- Barbara Molinari Quinby, Director of Social Justice Ministries Holy Name of Jesus Cathedral

PASTOR'S PARAGRAPH

My Dear Friends,

We have two marble statues in our lobby: one is St Mary Magdalene, our parish patron. The other is St Thomas the Apostle. Both of these Saints are witnesses to Jesus' Resurrection.

St. Thomas is holding a carpenter's rule – he was a builder of churches in India and there is a tradition he also went to Sri Lanka. May all our prayers be with those who suffered from the terror last week. Bombing is not a message St Thomas would bring when he preached the Gospel.

And for ourselves we pray to insight and understanding as Thomas received directly from the Lord.

There is a 2nd collection this weekend for our Catholic Home Missions. Our diocese once received funds from this national collection, but we have grown so much that other places are more needful of these funds. It is our turn to be generous.

CONFESSIONS: At St Mary Magdalene there will be Confessions on Saturday April 27 at 10:30, after Baptisms. And also on Saturday May 4 at 10:30, after Baptisms.

Father Donald Staib
